PROGRAM NOTE

One of the most influential figures in Iranian classical music, Darvish Khān (1872–1926) was a prolific composer in addition to being a master of the traditional plucked string instruments tār and setār. The term chāhār meyrāb means a fast, étude-like piece, and māhur indicates a collection of notes similar to the Western major scale. My arrangement preserves Darvish Khān's melody, infusing it with Western harmonies while translating the techniques of setār-playing to the violin and cello.

—Kian Ravaei

PERFORMANCE NOTE

It is recommended that the performers listen to traditional interpretations of Darvish Khān's Chāhār Meyrābe Māhur (many of which may be found on YouTube) in order to assimilate the rhythmic idiosyncrasies of Iranian classical music.

ANALYSIS

The section from measure 185–235 contains a koron, an Iranian microtone which is approximately a quarter tone flat in relation to 12-tone equal temperament. The koron is approximated using the quarter tone flat symbol.
